

ARE ANGRY AT THE SITUATION

Davidson And McGillivray Do Not Like The Senator's Interference In State Muss.

FIGHT CONTINUES TO THE FINISH

Two Hundred Prominent Republicans Sign Davidson's Announcement That He Will Continue To Be A Candidate.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., July 24.—Governor Davidson has made a quick and effective response to the veiled charge by Senator La Follette that the present governor was receiving support of stalwarts and therefore not entitled to be trusted with the republican nomination. While Governor Davidson has not thought it necessary to declare every stalwart in the republican party his bitter enemy, he has been able to show that his support among what Senator La Follette brands as regular republicans is by no means slight. An address to the republican voters of Wisconsin was issued last night supporting Governor Davidson. This statement was signed by prominent "halfbreeds" all over the state.

McGillivray Mad. Senator McGillivray is also angry. He puts the senator on a grill for having split what he calls the majority of the republican party already divided in three factions making the party a four cornered affair. McGillivray continues his campaign with unbounded confidence that he will be nominated. Lenroot makes subtle thrusts at Davidson saying that never in the history of the state have former lieutenant governors been selected to be governors at future elections and that only once has a vice president been chosen for president after having served a partial term. The president this one being Roosevelt. Lenroot has a convincing air about him but this sort of talk will not do down. All the time he is belittling Davidson he is making votes for his opponent. Davidson's list of signers contain the names of some of the strongest of the former supporters of La Follette. Ex-Governor Hoard said some days ago as follows:

Hoard's Idea. "The true meaning of the election law," said the former governor, "is that the senator will, after calmly considering the matter, finally decide to keep out." Mr. Hoard advocates the nomination of Gov. Davidson. "I am with him," he said, "because it is political propriety to give him the nomination. He has earned it. His record proves that. If I did not believe firmly that he stands for the same things as Senator La Follette, that he is still as firm a friend as ever of them, I would never support him for the nomination."

Are Worried. The congressional situation however bothers the would-be helmsmen of the state's destiny. Nolan is gaining strength day by day in the first and Cooper while he promises much seems to accomplish but little. The feeling that the time for a change in the first district has come gains ground daily in former strong Cooper settlements. Cooper can not count his enemies on his two hands now but needs a paper and pencil. In the second district Nelson appears to have the contest won and in his vest pocket. The third is surely Babcock's and Minor is making strides in the ninth that surprises his opponents.

Old Soldiers' Candidate. John W. Thomas, of Chippewa Falls, seeks to become state treasurer. He is the old soldiers' candidate on the ticket and is endorsed, regardless of faction. Mr. Thomas sends out his announcement signed by A. C. Weiser, of Milwaukee; W. D. Hoard, of Ft. Atkinson; Philip Cheek, of Baraboo, and Pliny Norcross, of Janesville. His opponent is present state treasurer Kempt, of Milwaukee who is in the Davidson corner. Just how much strength Thomas will develop remains to be seen but he is making a strong play for the nomination. Rock county is still watched with interest. The situation in the third assembly district where four candidates are out, three avowed La Follette radical republicans, one a conservative is interesting. Courage over the situation is given by this condition and the senator's office, which is really the Lenroot headquarters, are making great plans what will be done when Rock county is "cornered."

BRYAN HELD LEVEE AT THE PEACE CONFERENCE

Rider To Model Arbitration Treaty Which He Suggested, Was Adopted By Interparliamentary Union.

[Special to The Gazette.]

London, July 25.—William J. Bryan at the Interparliamentary peace conference, by his eloquence Tuesday induced the conference to adopt a resolution of international disputes.

Bryan was given an ovation. He said: "If we are able to separate questions of fact from questions of honor in international disputes, we shall be able to settle the facts with honor when great questions arise."

Points to Nelson; is Dramatic. Pointing to a painting in the hall illustrating the death of Nelson, Bryan exclaimed:

"There is as much inspiration in a noble life as in a heroic death. Permanent peace only can be established on the foundation of the brotherhood of man."

At his conclusion the delegates rushed to the platform where they surrounded Bryan and congratulated him on his eloquence.

The conference then adopted a resolution calling on all nations to ask for an international committee inquiry.

Text of Resolution. "If a disagreement should arise, not included in those to be submitted, parties shall not resort to any act of hostility before they invite the formation of an international commission of inquiry."

The resolution unanimously was adopted.

Baron d'Estournelles de Constant, head of the French delegation, declared that if the powers were decided among themselves how to act, they would be forced to do so first by bankruptcy and then by revolution. He said that limitation of armaments had no connection with the chimera of disarmament. The arguments against disarmament were based on the augmented expenditure of the powers.

He added the augmentations in the United States were due to the unfortunate example of Europe, but in proportion to the population the American forces had not been increased unreasonably.

Germany, continued the baron, commits the grave fault of struggling with the United States for naval preeminence and thus divides her energies, both on land and sea, uselessly, for the American states are united and inaccessible, while the states of Europe are divided and always will be menaced by the possibility of a coalition against them.

A resolution was agreed to in principle urging that the question of disarmament be placed on the programme of the next peace conference at The Hague. The exact wording of the resolution will be discussed Wednesday.

Congressman D. L. D. Granger, of Rhode Island, was elected vice president of the American delegation for the coming year and Congressman Richard Bartholdt, of Missouri, and T. E. Burton, of Ohio, were elected members of the international council.

Young, associate professor and executive head of department of political economy, Stanford university.

FUNERAL OF SAGE AT FAR ROCKAWAY

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Troy, N. Y., July 25.—The body of Russell Sage was brought here from New York today and buried in Oakwood cemetery beside the body of his first wife.

Funeral Impressive

New York, July 25.—The funeral services over the body of the late Russell Sage were held in the First Presbyterian church at Far Rockaway, Long Island, Tuesday afternoon.

A number of prominent persons were among those who came to pay a last tribute to the memory of the aged financier.

The service was conducted by Rev. Andrew Hageman, D. D., assistant pastor of the Collegiate. Reformed church of New York assisted by Rev. Robert Leetch, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Far Rockaway, and Rev. Lyman D. Calkins, a former pastor of the church.

At the opening of the service, the hymn, "Peace, Perfect Peace" was sung. Rev. Mr. Leetch then read a passage from the Bible, a quartette rendered "Hark, Hark, My Soul," and Dr. Hageman read from the Bible, following with an eulogy on the deceased. At the conclusion of Dr. Hageman's remarks, "Peace, I Leave with You" was sung by the quartette. After Rev. Mr. Calkins offered prayer the service was concluded by the congregation singing, "I Would Not Live Always."

MUTUAL TRUSTEES ARE FLAYED BY COL. SHOOK

Declares It Is Neither Safe Nor Logical To Trust Those Who Have Been False.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

New York, July 25.—Col. A. M. Shook, of Nashville, Tenn., a member of the international policyholders' committee, who was placed on the administration ticket for trustees of the Mutual Life Insurance company, without his permission, was in this city Tuesday and conferred with the committee for the policyholders' committee about the placing of his name on that ticket. Afterward Col. Shook said concerning the Mutual Life Insurance company:

"The revelations during the past year as to flagrant extravagance in the conduct of the business, gross mismanagement, diversion of the sacred trust funds for unauthorized purposes and wanton disregard for the interests of policyholders, constitute an indictment not only against the officers who were directly responsible, but against the trustees to whom the policyholders had a right to look for protection."

Sop to Policyholders.

"The throwing overboard of a few officers who were caught and pilloried by public opinion for misdeeds, is simply a tub thrown to the whale of outraged and injured policyholders. We believe that the real power which has been in control of the affairs of this company and which put in office the men who, when caught, they deposited, is still seeking to dominate. It was this power, we are constrained to conclude, which caused men of conscience to retire from the board of trustees months ago, when they found themselves in a minority in advocating measures to the highest and best interests of policyholders."

Protests of no Avail.

"We cannot see it otherwise than that if we were elected on the ticket proposed by the administration, we would find ourselves in a hopeless minority and unable to do more than raise a voice of protest against policies."

FIFTY PULAJANES KILLED IN BATTLE IN PHILIPPINES

Detachment of the 24th Colored Infantry Was Attacked on Island of Leyte Yesterday.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

San Francisco, July 25.—The Examiner's Manila cablegram says: "A detachment of the 24th colored, and a company of the native constabulary were attacked yesterday by hundreds of Pulajanes on the island of Leyte. A desperate battle followed resulting in the rout of the natives with a loss of fifty killed and sixty wounded. One American sergeant of the constabulary was wounded."

London's Immense Traffic.

London uses about 500,000 horses and 20,000 public vehicles.

Mismanagement of the Policyholders' Interests.

The policyholders, who constitute the real company, and not the management, are entitled not to a minority who will look solely and alone to their interests; not a majority, but an entire board of trustees who will be thus actuated. We cannot get away from the conviction that there should be an entire change of control of this company from the elements heretofore in control to the policyholders themselves.

Where Danger Lies.

"It is neither logical nor safe to trust a second time those who have once been false. If they should succeed at this time in deluding the policyholders to again blindly trust them, they could then proceed to greater lengths than ever in the consciousness that by the occasional offering of a sacrifice, and by specious promises, they could at any time avert an uprising of policyholders, and with the further satisfying thought that after this only a portion of the trustees will be elected during any one year, and if they can control the election this time there will be no need to fear. It is therefore up to the policyholders now or never to take control of their property and have it run in their own control."

Management Condemned.

"The present management of the Mutual Life Insurance company is the only power in America that undertakes to declare martial law and nois, Delaware and Tennessee to suspend the writ of habeas corpus in time of peace. The conscript act that it is promulgating and attempting to enforce is so broad in its provisions that men like Gen. Tracy and myself, who are over 60 years of age, are in effect being forced on its ticket. It does not limit its right of conscripting citizens to New York, but goes to Illinois, its forces."

New Indictments Against Strikers

Cornelius Shea and Other Teamster Officials Charged With Conspiracy.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Chicago, July 25.—New indictments were returned today by the grand jury against Cornelius P. Shea, president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and forty-two other labor leaders and officials. The new indictments superseded the old ones which were found at the conclusion of the teamsters' strike last year. The indictments charge conspiracy to injure the trade of a number of the largest business houses in Chicago.

Two Jews Were Killed.

Odessa, July 25.—All is quiet here today. During the disturbances yesterday two Jews were killed and seventeen wounded, and twenty-seven shops were wrecked.

Newspapers Muzzled.

St. Petersburg, July 25.—No word concerning military disorders is now permitted to be published. The Red today says a financial crash is impending. In the provinces the suppression of newspapers and the arrest of agitators continues unabated.

Peace Party Appeals.

St. Petersburg, July 25.—Count Heyden, Prince Lvoff, and H. Stakovich, the three members of parliament who refused to sign the parliamentary address to the country, issued at Viborg, July 23, today issued a separate address appealing to the people to quietly submit to the imperial decree dissolving parliament and prepare for the elections of members and the new parliament.

War to the Knife.

St. Petersburg, July 25.—War to the knife with revolution, and the knife to the hit, was proclaimed Tuesday by Premier Stolypin in a telegram addressed to the governor, generals, governors and prefects throughout Russia, and to the viceroy of the Caucasus, who are ordered to strike, and spare not in efforts to preserve order and crush "the enemies of society."

Included in this category, as shown by the events of the day, are not only revolutionists and socialists, but also the educated liberal and landed classes represented in the constitutional democratic party, whose clubs everywhere have been closed, and all the progressive newspapers which are not permitted to lift their voices anywhere throughout the entire land.

Drastic Instructions.

Premier Stolypin's telegram is as follows: "In conformity with instructions received from the emperor with the view to securing full cooperation between the different local authorities, I hereby inform you that the government expects you to exercise vigilant and untiring supervision over your subordinates so that order may be promptly and definitely restored. Disturbances must be suppressed and revolutionary movements must be put down by all legal means. The measures you take must be carefully considered. The struggle begun is against the enemies of society, and not against society itself. Consequently wholesale repression cannot be approved. Imprudent and illegal acts are likely to give rise to discontent instead of conducting to calm and cannot be tolerated. The intentions of the emperor are immutable. The government firmly desires to assist in the amendment of the legal procedure."

and the laws hitherto enforced which no longer serve their purpose. The old regime will be regenerated, but order must be fully maintained. You must act on your own initiative, as you are invested with responsibility. Firm and vigorous steps taken on these lines will doubtless be upheld by the best part of society."

Reminder of Old Days.

The manifesto bears a remarkable similarity to the earlier compositions of Ministers of the Interior Plehve and Boulign and the reactionary press has had slight difficulty in cutting it down, as they already had done with Monday's imperial manifesto. In an appeal to the "league of Russian men" and other old school Russians to rise and smite all the progressive classes.

Even before the declaration of the dissolution of the lower house of parliament the war office had perfected its plans for handling expected disorders, both military and civilian. Gen. Moller, Zakomelsky, who suppressed the Sebastopol revolt and cooperated with Gen. Rennenkampf in the reduction of the Siberian rebellion last winter, was recalled from the command of a corps and placed at the disposition of the war office to be used wherever trouble may first be manifested.

Expect Outbreak in South.

Both the government and the revolutionists expect this outbreak in the south, and that it will roll northward to the two capitals. This may induce the proletarian organizations to postpone the declaration of a general strike from St. Petersburg until contagion is borne up from the south.

The railroads, however, are anxious to have this strike declared at once. Members of the railway employees union with whom the press correspondents here and in Moscow have talked declared that they were ready to walk out at the first call from the League of Leagues, with which the union is federated.

Political Clubs Closed.

The constitutional democratic club and two other political clubs were closed Tuesday night by order of the police authorities. A caucus of constitutional democrats was being held at the club named at the time.

Prince Paul Dolgorouff, chairman of the central executive committee appointed at Viborg on Monday, has called a meeting of that committee which will arrange a secret caucus to discuss further tactics. Moscow constitutional democrats recommended the summoning of a national convention of the party, but this will scarcely be allowed by the authorities.

Seek to Hamper Government.

Meetings were held in a dozen houses in St. Petersburg, and just across the frontier railway employees, peasants, socialists and revolutionists of different shades of opinion are discussing the best plan of action to throw the whole machinery of the government out of gear.

Agrarian disorders have broken out in the vicinity of St. Petersburg. The estate of Gen. Baron Fredericks, aide camp to the emperor, 40 miles from the capital, has been plundered by peasants. Gen. Fredericks asked for troops from Gatchina, but was informed that the situation was too serious to permit of the changing of the present military dispositions.

THIS MAYOR TOM JOHNSON GREATER THAN THE COURTS

Disregarded Injunction and Told Municipal Traction Co. Men to Go Ahead Tearing up Tracks.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Cleveland, Ohio, July 25.—Judge Ford of the common pleas court today granted an injunction restraining the city and Municipal Traction company from interfering with tracks of the Cleveland Electric company. The Municipal company in which it is said, Mayor Johnson is interested, began tearing up the track of the Cleveland company this morning on Fulton street. Mayor Johnson acknowledged service, but told the men to proceed with the work of removing the tracks and ignore the court's order.

attractive number is W. A. Sunday's he is popularly known, is a unique evangelist, bred on the baseball field among greater and lesser league players and developed into one of the greatest ministers of the gospel on the lecture platform.

Excellent Music

For pure pleasure the concerts last year proved above all other portions of the program. Special attention was given to the selection of the musicians for the coming Chautauqua, and the popularity of the concerts will not wane. For the first four days The Chicago Glee Club has been signed among Chautauqua quartets, and their trombone selections are most charming novelty features. For the remaining six days the Ferguson Dixie Ju-blee singers will be heard. This company scored an enthusiastic success here last season and any praise of them collectively or individually would be useless to Janesville people.

FORMER RESIDENTLUCIAN DAVIDSON DREAMS A DREAM AN PRINTS IT IN A PAPER.

IT IS ONLY A FAIRY TALE

Recounts Imaginary Conversation Between Little Mildred Clark and Pet Dog.Lucian Davidson, champion pipe dreamer of the Chicago Daily News and former promoter of that collos-sal fake bicycle meet held in Janesville several years ago which caused several of the promoters to take short journeys away until the public forgot, has sprung another one of his "Fairy Tales" on the unsuspecting Chicago public. This time he took for his subject his small niece, Mildred Clark of Janesville, and his pious escape tale of the small Miss Clark over a telephone from the mayor's office in Chicago to the dog pound where her pet canine Topsy was incarcerated is pathetic and evidently tickled the palates of the jaded Chicago editors. "Pure fiction, another of Davidson's pipe dreams," his brother-in-law George Clark said this morning. "I am surprised the public stands for such stuff although I will admit it sounds good."

The Tale.

According to her father, George Clark, of No. 5 Racine street, his small daughter Mildred went to visit her aunt, Mrs. Lucian Davidson in Chicago. Little Mildred was not well after being there a day or two and Mr. Clark went down and brought her home. With this for a basis for his tale the little lady's imaginative uncle wove a beautiful romance of a dog, a girl, a sorrowing, unhappy major, a kind hearted clerk in the major's office, a conversation over a telephone, an obliging pound master and a wonderful dog. Piecing them together it made a good story for fiction where truth is not expected. The Daily News last evening published the "dream" in full, this morning's papers publish the summary, one of which is selected so that the fine art of fiction may not be lost upon those who remember Davidson in his palmy days in Janesville.

"Hello, Topsy."

"Topsy," Clark departed for Janesville, Wis., yesterday after two days' visit in Chicago which was fraught with a series of the most extraordinary adventures.A black curly-haired cocker spaniel is Topsy, round as a butter ball, George Clark, the father of the dog's little mistress, Mildred Clark, wore an air of physical exhaustion and a dol-lared expression as he boarded the train leading his daughter, who clapped in her devoted arms the sly rene Topsy.

In the Pound.

Topsy's serenity had been recently acquired, however. Only a few hours before he had been rescued from the clutches of the dog-pound man, and was identified by his mistress over the telephone. Mildred's voice over the telephone was greeted by frenzied barks of delight and the hard-hearted poundmaster was forced to relent at the pretty spectacle of dog and mistress holding loving converse over the telephone. So Topsy was restored to her arms and Mildred's visit to her aunt at 1633 Kenmore avenue was summarily ended.

The Trials.

The trials of Topsy and Mildred (and of Mildred's long-suffering relatives) began two days ago with Mildred's visit to Chicago. Mildred brought the two youngest of her eight dolls and parental reproof was necessary before she could be induced to give up the pleasure of Topsy's company.No sooner had the smoke of the receding train, which bore Mildred to Chicago, subsided than Topsy began a series of manipulations which ended in a journey here also.Mildred's father, who is a merchant at Janesville, says that for hard work and excessive canine intelligence Topsy is entitled to the medal. The little dog, chewed up two of Mildred's dresses, and her sunbonnet in his frenzied despair, barked until he was too weak to utter a sound and then retired under the covers of Mildred's bed. Fierce growling greeted any attempt to comfort him with offers of food and drink. There were only two courses open.

Dog and Child.

Either Mildred must be brought home to the disappointment of the little girl and her aunt or Topsy must go to Mildred. The latter course was chosen and after a wonderful journey Topsy found himself the center of an adoring group of children in front of the fashionable apartment building at 1633 Kenmore.Trips into Wonderland (Buena Park) were made and it was this which proved Topsy's undoing.The dog catcher came along and as Topsy had no tag he was promptly taken into custody.

The Disappearance.

His little mistress had gone to the house to get things for a "play dinner" and she returned to find Topsy gone. Her screams when she learned the truth made immediate action necessary and Mr. Clark took his small daughter and went to the City Hall to the Mayor's office. The story was listened to by Abe Merinbaum, a clerk in the office, who informed him that Section 71 of the revised code prohibited the pardoning of unlicensed dogs.Moved by the child's tears Mr.
Merinbaum established telephonic communication between Miss Clark and the poundmaster's office and Mildred said, "That you, Topsy."

Bow-wow-wow.

"Bow-wow-wow," came the answer, accompanied by yelps betraying unmistakable delight."Oh, it is sure enough, Topsy," laughed the child, her tear dimmed countenance brightening and the two carried on a veritable love feast over the telephone."Yes, I am taking Mildred home," said her father."Her mother will be surprised to see her so soon, but I think we will all enjoy more sleep at night if the two are together—and this includes Topsy."

AS SEEN BY LAMBWas Not Half as Bad as Painted by Jesse Crandall—Glorious
Wheat Fields.James H. Lamb and Hurd Wixom have recently returned from a visit in the great northwest of Canada and report conditions much different than those that were found by Jesse Crandall. The latter found Moosejaw, the worst place on the map, but Mr. Lamb discovered that it was not half as bad that Drinkwater, some four hundred miles to the north, was better still and that the lands surrounding were the greatest wheat, flax and general grain fields in the world. Moosejaw may lack a good water supply and the rain may be a little too plentiful and the mosquitoes may be a bit numerous and of an overly big size, but nevertheless, Mr. Lamb believes any interprising person could become independent and retire after five years' residence there. Alexander MacGregor, with whom Mr. Crandall went, certainly had a streak of ill luck for the first few weeks, but when Mr.
Lamb left he was doing well and seemed pleased with the country and his future prospects.On Wednesday, Aug. 1st, the C. &

WON BY THE EAGLESContest With Milton Crescents Yesterday Was Interesting But Marred by Frequent Errors.In a contest replete with errors but possessing many exciting features, notwithstanding, the Janesville Eagles' baseball team defeated the Milton Crescents at the fair grounds in this city yesterday afternoon by the score of 13 to 7. Milton went to bat first and scored two runs in the first inning. Janesville's chances did not look so good to the bleachers until some deplorable work by Bond, the Milton shortstop, during the same period let in two runs for the locals. Errors were frequent on both sides from that time on. For Janesville, Carle hit out a two bagger in the sixth inning and brought in two runs, making the score 9 to 6 in favor of the Bower City men.
Milton had a large aggregation of rooters on the scene but their noisy encouragement failed to help matters materially. Gus Schmidt pitched a strong game for Janesville and had fair support. Place, the Milton twirler, was ill and in view of this fact did very well. Alderman Hager acted as umpire and his decisions were generally satisfactory.

Decidedly Unlucky.

"Did you ever sit down at a table where there were just thirteen?" asked a man of his companion in a railway car.

"Once," replied the latter.

"Well, you never observed that any bad luck followed it did you?""Why yes. Bad luck for most of the thirteen."

"Any of them die?"

"Not that I know of. Never heard of any of them dying."

"Not enough victuals to go round?"

"Who's talking about victuals?
There wasn't any victuals.""Thought you said you sat down to a table where there were thirteen persons?"

WHY USE GREASE TO REMOVE GREASE?

Of all the greasy, hard-to-clean things about the house the pots and pans take the cake. Think of all the different concoctions of lard, tallow, butter, and cottonseed oil that are made in them!

If you wish to use a cleansing article to remove that grease why use one that contains seven-eighths grease itself?

If you wish to keep your hands in the condition Nature meant them to be why use a cleanser that contains from 35 to 50 per cent caustic base—when everyone knows there is nothing so hard on the skin as alkali—why? Especially when there is a "genuine cleaner" that contains neither alkali, grease or acid, does better work and is actually beneficial to the hands. Ask for Lavaline. Don't take our word for it—just ask your grocer or druggist for a free sample of Lavaline. Or write to us.

If Lavaline doesn't do all we claim—and more—take it back to your dealer and get your 10c.

$1,000.00 reward to anyone who can prove that Lavaline, as we put it up for the dealer, contains any chemical or other ingredient not put there by Nature.

FIGHT TO THE DEATH

Governor Davidson has accepted the wage of battle offered by Senator La Follette in Milwaukee. Not only has he accepted it, but he has thrown back the charges made by the erstwhile Governor into his teeth and openly declared war to the hilt. From now on something is doing in the state politics. It means that the old bitter factional fight is again on; only the factional lines are drawn within a faction and the old-time conservatives can sit back and enjoy the fracas. Read out of the republic can party by the Senator, the conservatives hold the balance of power in the coming primaries. It is safe to say that the Senator's champion will not find favor in their eyes and while they are to take no part in the contest they can vote on Primary Day with a vengeance that may illustrate the old maxim, "Beware of the vest-pocket voters."

TWENTY YEARS

Under this caption the Wall Street Journal says that this period of time is necessary to accomplish any of the great radical changes that alter the sociological map of the country. It says in part: "It takes about twenty-five years to settle definitely a great question in this country. For instance, the serious agitation of the slavery question began about 1840, and it was not settled until settled by the Civil war which ended in 1865. The questions of reconstruction which opened in 1865 continued a cause of disturbance to the country for twenty years when this period of our history was practically closed on the inauguration of President Cleveland in 1885. The money question may be said to have begun from the passage of the Bland silver purchasing act in 1873, and this was not settled until the passage of the gold standard law of 1900, twenty-two years after. The great question now before the country is that of the control of corporations. The movement against omnipotent, uncontrolled capitalism, said the London Times recently, is not new in the United States. It was the real mainspring of the popular sentiment for Mr. Bryan and the democrats in 1896."

"The question dates back farther than that. A convenient historical beginning for it is the passage of the Interstate Commerce commission act of 1887. It has therefore been before the country for nineteen years and thus should be regarded as being in its last stages of solution. It will be noted that every one of the great issues mentioned led up to some mighty upheaval before its final settlement. For instance, the slavery question led to civil war. Reconstruction was not settled until there had been a political revolution involving a change from one political party to another in the government of the country. It took a panic to settle the money question. It looks very much as if the corporation question would find its greatest, and perhaps final battlefield in the next presidential contest."

"Speaking broadly, the issue involves an effort on the part of the human race to find a safe and reasonable balance between unrestricted and wasteful competition on the one side, and the tyranny of what the London Times calls 'omnipotent, uncontrolled capitalism' on the other. There must be somewhere a golden mean between uncontrolled competition which means wasteful, disastrous trade wars and the operation, in its harshest aspects, of the law of the survival of the fittest, and uncontrolled monopoly which means tyranny and oppression. Socialism seeks the destruction of competition and the merging of monopoly into a state of public ownership of the agencies of production and transportation. As against this the experiment is being tried, upon a grand scale, of government regulation in order to preserve an even balance between the two extremes of competition and monopoly. But regulation involves the evil of centralization of power in the federal government. It is a hard question to settle. It involves the most intricate and deepest economic problems. The greatest students of political economy are divided in regard to it. Nevertheless, this stupendous issue, the solution of which makes for the well or woe of countless generations to come, is really subject to the decision of the sixteen million voters of the country."

Hot Weather Philosophy.

Marion Advertiser. Really when you come right down to it pumpkin-headed men enjoy life better than the pert fellow does because the former gentleman is not usually sensitive and he will eat contentedly anything set before him, while men of the latter class are apt to be sensitive and fly into passion over adverse criticisms and lead unhappy lives. We are quite positive that a lay man with a combination of foolishness is the happiest man on earth.

Taffy, We All Like It.

Milwaukee Journal. The Gazette talks truthfully and eloquently about "Beautiful" Janesville. Another thing about our sister city is that it is good. For years it has been our ambition to sup with the Janesvillians. All Milwaukee wants to know them better and hopes the feeling is reciprocated. We have many interests in common and the wonder is that these representative Wisconsin cities have not gotten together and worked for each other long before this.

Socialism in Japan.

Wall Street Journal. Socialism is a form of paternalism, and therefore it is even more likely to develop under a paternal form of government than under a republican form. Socialism is being an outgrowth of individualism. It is, therefore, not strange that the Japanese government is said to have begun one of the greatest experiments in the nationalization of industries. The results of the experiment will be watched with interest.

INJUSTICE DONE TO T. P. BURNS

His Rights in Fourth Ave. Bridge Approach Matter Can Only Be Contested by Most Shadowy Claims.

Considerable injustice appears to have been done T. P. Burns in the account of the Fourth avenue bridge approach settlement by the council which was published in yesterday's issue. The city has no needs or records giving it any claim to the strip of land on the northern portion of Water Power lot No. 26 where the sidewalk leading from the bridge to River street was laid or, indeed, the roadway which it borders. The only possible claim it could have would be on the basis of the long usage—there being some who contend that the land was actually used as a driveway to the roadway alley before the bridge was built, twenty years ago this August, and that the statute of limitations has already expired. The city has not seriously advanced this vague claim and it may have seemed in a measure to have waived its chances of doing so by agreeing to use the present approach only until the new bridge is built, not exceeding five years. It was unjust to Mr. Burns to place such shadowy claims on the same basis as his rights which have not been disputed by anyone in authority. The only thing which the city has to show is a deed for a strip sixteen feet wide across the southern side of the lot which was given by Mr. Bailey. The Ford Milling Co. had a 40 foot right of way which is supposed to have been added at the time the bridge, built by popular subscription, was in the process of construction. But this seems to have been but a verbal agreement. In the course of years the boundaries of the river bank have been extended by the filling in of the stream and the only possible marks from which the city's 16 or 26 foot strip can be measured are some willow trees. And when this is measured out there remains a strip varying from 14 or more to 40 feet which has been generally conceded to be private property. The city built a plank walk there and maintained it at its own expense. When it was replaced by a brick walk, there was an understanding with members of the council that the same arrangement was to continue. The costs were subsequently charged to Mr. Burns and the latter objected and threatened to fence in the property unless the charge was withdrawn. He also took steps to protect rights which he might lose by leaving the approach open after the August of this year by securing the city's agreement to vacate within five years.

AMONG THE POLITICIANS

Upton Sinclair, author of "The Jungle," has consented to accept the congressional nomination from the Socialists of his district in New Jersey.

There is to be no fusion between the democrats and the populists in the Kansas elections this fall.

A blind man, J. B. Osborne of Atlanta, is the gubernatorial nominee of the Socialists of Georgia. He is known as an orator of unusual ability.

The withdrawal of Col. W. W. Lumpkin leaves a clear field for the re-election of Senator Tillman of South Carolina.

Socialists of Michigan have put a full state ticket in the field headed by James Walker, of Muskegon as candidate for governor.

Winston Churchill, the author, has entered the race as a candidate for the republican nomination for governor of New Hampshire.

The Socialists of North Dakota have nominated a state ticket headed by L. F. Dow of Grand Forks for governor.

This is the date set for the democrats of Alaska to meet in convention at Juneau to name their first candidate for delegate to congress.

Chairman John P. Rutherford has called the democratic state committee of Arkansas to meet in Little Rock tomorrow to discuss plans for the coming campaign.

The democratic state central committee of Washington meets in Seattle today to call a convention for the nomination of four candidates for justice of the supreme court and three congressional candidates. The convention will meet at 7 o'clock and will probably about the middle of September.

Republicans of Michigan are to meet in state convention in Detroit the last day of this month and on the following day the G. O. P. of Iowa will hold forth in Des Moines. The Detroit gathering will be in the nature of a love feast; but things will be different in the Hawkeye state. When the Perkins and Cummins supporters line up on the convention floor it will be the signal for one of the greatest political battles Iowa has seen in years.

Things politically are going along at a fast clip in Georgia, where the several candidates for the gubernatorial nomination with Hoke Smith and Clark Howell in front, deluging the state with oratory in anticipation of the primary next month.

STATEHOOD BILL QUILL

Oklahoma Eagle's Feather Used to Create New State.

TAKEN FROM WING OF LIVE BIRD

One of the Golden Vireos, Which Supplied Pen Used by President Roosevelt in Signing the Statehood Bill, Is Now Stuffed and Has Been Christened "Old Statehood."

Dec. 15, 1905, a golden eagle soaring high in the clear, crisp air of western Oklahoma descended on the ranch of a farmer seven miles northwest of Woodward and was caught by both feet separately in two steel traps that had been set for coyotes, says a Guthrie (Okla.) correspondent of the Kansas City Star. From the wing of this eagle was taken the quill with which President Roosevelt signed "Roosevelt," to the bill giving statehood to Oklahoma and Indian territories. The body of this eagle, which died after a period of captivity, was mounted by Professor George Stevens of the Northwestern Normal school in Alva and will be preserved for historical purposes under the name "Old Statehood."

When the delegation of 150 citizens of Oklahoma and Indian territories, carrying the "razorback" hog, went to Washington last winter to boom statehood the delegates were presented in a body to President Roosevelt by Delegate McGuire. Among the delegates was Charles Hunter, a "rough rider" sergeant under Colonel Roosevelt in the Spanish American war, of whom President Roosevelt was so fond that Hunter now is clerk of the court in the Oklahoma city district.

"President Roosevelt, to whom are you going to give the statehood pen?" asked Hunter.

"President Roosevelt turned and said: 'Charlie, you shall have the pen. Mr. Loeb, make a note that Charles Hunter gets the pen with which the statehood bill is signed.'"

D. P. Marum of Woodward, one of the earliest and most loyal supporters of joint statehood, suggested to Hunter that, inasmuch as Oklahoma originally was an Indian country and as the eagle was sacred to the Indian and also the national emblem of the United States, a quill from the wing of a live Oklahoma eagle would make an appropriate pen. Hunter was pleased with the suggestion, but did not know where he could find a live Oklahoma eagle.

One of the pioneer citizens of Woodward is L. B. "Dad" Nall, for many years a cattleman in Texas and now landlord of the Cattle King hotel in Woodward. Marum remembered that Nall had a big eagle in a cage and told Hunter that there would be no trouble in getting an eagle feather. When Marum reached home he feebly tried to find two eagles in Nall's cage, the new one being a large golden eagle that had been caught in steel traps by a farmer, who had brought the eagle to Woodward and offered it for sale. Finding no buyer, he gave the eagle to Nall.

"Dad" Nall was delighted to furnish the eagle feather, and Feb. 21 he entered the eagle cage and after a lively bout with the golden eagle got two quills from its wing, each quill measuring twenty-five inches in length. Marum sent the quills to Hunter. A druggist in Oklahoma City, named Redding, cut one of the quills into a pen. Hunter sent this pen to President Roosevelt.

Here follows a story about the eagle which "Dad" Nall says he is willing to back up with his sixshooter. If necessary, March 6, the day the senate amended the statehood bill, the eagle refused food and began beating its head and wings against the wire netting of its

Can we longer afford to overlook the fact that we can secure the very best of dental service at about half the rates we have been paying? Dr. Richards of Janesville, the independent dentist, says he would be delighted to have his work (put out at a modest price) compared with work done by others at possibly double his prices. He affirms that the comparison will establish the fact that:

His work is good in every respect.

His work is lasting.

His work is done thoroughly.

His work is substantial, and, in fact, not excelled by that of any other local dentist.

In addition to the reasonableness of his prices, he gives close attention to painless work. Now see what you get by having him do your dental work.

CHANGES AT THE KNITTERY

Large Outlay for Remodeling—Skilled Labor in Demand at Hanson Furniture Factory.

The Lewis Knitting Company, which recently purchased one of the New Gas Products Engines, is installing the same in place of the engine which has been in service for many years.

An electric motor is being used for power, and the new power machine will take up less space and keep the surroundings in a cleaner condition. It is said that the amount of coal that will be used is considerably less than that consumed by a steam engine.

Much New Machinery

The company has formerly depended on the large roof of their factory building for the supply of soft water in which their manufactured product is washed, but recent conditions have necessitated a change. Two large tanks have been built on the roof and as the city water is turned into them it is filtered and by the use of chemicals is made safe and proper for the cleaning of yarn. The basement of the building, which was formerly used as a storeroom for boxes and other stock, has now been equipped with new knitting machines which knit the yarn into long tube-shaped lengths. Some fifteen such machines, besides several for other purposes, are running in this room.

Model Laundry Equipment

A new washer has been purchased. This stands some twelve feet in height and as the long rolls of knitted yarn come down they are run into the machine and revolved in properly tempered water. A very short time is needed to cleanse the material. From here the wet yarn is run into a water extractor. The long strips of yarn are revolved so rapidly in the copper cylinder that but little of the water remains. The remainder is removed by drawing the yarn over a tube which has a continual flow of heated air running through it. Beside this process for unfinished garments a dryer is also used for finished suits which makes them ready for shipment in a few hours after knitting. The old process of washing products has been entirely eliminated and the new process is a great improvement.

Ice Famine Is Felt

Shurtleff's ice cream factory is one of the busiest places in the city. This concern has had considerable trouble in getting the required amount of ice necessary to freeze the cream and so great is the demand that an ice-freezing addition is being contemplated in connection with the factory.

Mr. Shurtleff states that his ice has cost him nearly three times that of last year and the installing of an ice plant would be a great convenience as well as money-saver for the concern which has grown so rapidly in the last few years. Last Saturday nearly 600 gallons of ice cream were shipped from the plant, and the amount sent out daily averages about 500 gallons.

New Freezer a Success

The new freezer which was recently put in is the only one of its kind in this country. The machine is attached to a 600-gallon vat which contains the sweet cream mixed with flavoring and other ingredients ready to be frozen. From here it runs through the freezer and as it comes out of the machine is run into cans and packed and is ready for shipment. The machine is patented by a Fort Atkinson concern and was put into the local factory for trial and has already proven itself equal to Mr. Shurtleff's expectation. It is a great improvement over the old method and freezes cream so rapidly that one man is unable to manage the output. The capacity of the freezer is about 80 gallons per hour. Orders are now being taken for the machine which will be on the market at the opening of next season. A new churn has also been installed and the amount of butter put out daily has greatly increased. As was the case last season, some trouble is experienced in getting the required amount of cream and men are being sent through the country to purchase from the various creameries about Janesville.

Hanson Factory Very Busy

The dull season, which is experienced by nearly every manufacturing establishment, has failed to strike the Hanson Furniture Company in the last two years and the company is today nearly two months behind in orders. A new addition, 50x60 feet and two stories high, has just been completed. Several new machines have been purchased. Among these is a joiner which was of their own special order. Another steam dry kiln has been built, making four in all used by this factory. The exhaust steam, which was formerly wasted, is now being used by the installation of a new condensing machine and it is estimated that nearly one-half of the fuel bill is being cut off. Skilled men are being advertised for in the manufacturers' journals and this is one of the few concerns in the city which require more skilled labor than can be secured.

JOINT PICNIC TWO K. OF C. COUNCILS

Will Be Held at Yost's Park Tomorrow—Match Ball Game Between Beloit and Janesville Teams.

Members of Carroll Council, Knights of Columbus, and their wives, children and friends, will enjoy their annual joint picnic with the Beloit Knights tomorrow at Yost's park.

The merry-makers will leave for all interurban cars but the majority plan to take early ones. The festivities will begin and continue without intermission through the day. There will be athletic sports and all sorts of amusements. In the morning the old men will play ball. Fence boards will be bats and the spigero will be a basket ball. A special code of rules has been adopted for this contest. In the afternoon there will be a match game between the Janesville and Beloit lodges. Captain Tom Heffernan of the locals has not as yet arranged his lineup but expects victory.

BEACH WAS FOUND

MENTALLY SOUND

Physicians Who Examined Rock County Farmer Discovered No Conclusive Evidence of Dementia.

Late yesterday afternoon Drs. Gibson and St. John who had made an examination of the mental condition of Alexander Beach reached a conclusion that he was not demented. Clear and rational answers had been given to all questions propounded and there was no evidence on which to base a recommendation that he be sent to the asylum at Mendota where he has taken treatment on two former occasions. Recently he procured a hand organ and was accustomed to amuse himself for hours in playing it on the front porch. It was also understood that he kept himself well armed, prepared to open fire on officers who came to his house. He was seized while at work starting the kitchen fire in his farm house and made no show of resistance. The complaints against Beach were made by neighbors and not by his relatives.

DESERTED WIFE MAY RECOVER FURNITURE

Mrs. Martin Dohs, Alleging Husband Sold Her Property, Secures Replevin Warrant.

In Justice Reeder's court tomorrow will be heard the case of Mrs. Martin Dohs vs. Sam Anton, a junk dealer. The recovery of property said to have been sold by the defendant by the deserting husband of the plaintiff. The affair which attracted the attention of the public Saturday, July 14, when Mrs. Dohs and three little children appeared at the police station and told a pitiful story. The mother said she had gone to Watertown to visit relatives a few days before and on returning had found the home on North River street empty. A note had been left however and this stated that the husband had gone west in search of better employment. From neighbors she learned where her household goods had been disposed of. The police prevented the shipment of these articles and day before yesterday Judge Reeder issued a warrant of replevin. Mrs. Dohs claiming that the furniture was her own personal property, paid for from her and not her husband's earnings. If this can be proven the defendant junk dealer will be forced to surrender the property for which he paid $10 and pay the cost of the court's action. George Crossman bought four dollars worth of furniture of Mrs. Dohs but will endeavor to reach an amicable settlement with Mrs. Dohs, out of court.

STABBING AFFRAY IN BELOIT LAST NIGHT

Howard Drouchenour Received a Knife Thrust in Grappling With George Hildenburg.

Attracted by the noise of a scuffle in an alley off of State street in Beloit at 11:30 last evening, the police arrived on scene to find Howard Drouchenour lying on the ground in a pool of blood. He was able to tell them that he had been stabbed in the chest with a pocket knife in the hands of one George Hildenburg. The affray is said to have arisen over a girl, though Hildenburg, who was arrested after a hot chase, says that Drouchenour had him down and that he stabbed in self defense. Though the blade penetrated several inches, the victim will live.

HAMMOCK SET AFIRE BY LITTLE BROTHER

Will Probably Cost Little Four Months-Old Cecil Carroll His Life.

While Cecil Carroll, an infant of the tender age of four months, was sleeping in a hammock on a farm four miles east of Beloit Monday afternoon, a three-year-old brother named Donald got to playing with some matches and set fire to a quilt lying on the ground and directly under the helpless child. The blaze was finally communicated to the hammock and devouring the ropes, let the little brother down into the burning quilt. Mrs. Albert Carroll had left the premises to

The Manager Of the B. & Q. A.

By VAUGHAN KESTER

Copyright, 1901, by Harper & Brothers.

"I didn't imagine you would be the first to advise me to shirk it."

"I wouldn't ordinarily, but you don't know Autoch. They can make it very unpleasant for you. The town is in a fever of excitement over what has happened today. It seems the men are not through with you yet."

"Yes, I know. My father should have gone back. It looks as if I'd yielded, but I couldn't ask him to when I saw how he felt about it."

"You see, the town lives off the shops and read. It's a personal matter to every man, woman and child in the place."

"That's what makes me so mad at the stupid fools," said Oakley, with some bitterness. "They haven't the brains to see that they have a lot more at stake than any one else. If they could gain anything from a fight I'd have plenty of patience with them, but they are sure losers. Even if they strike and the shops are closed for the next six months it won't cost Cornish a dollar, indeed, it will be money in his pocket."

"I don't think they'll strike," said the doctor. "I didn't mean that exactly, but they'll try to keep you on a strain."

"They have done about all they can in that direction. The worst has happened. I won't say it didn't bruise me up a bit. Why, I am actually sore in every bone and muscle. I was never so battered, but I'm beginning to get back, and I'm going to live the whole thing down right here. I can't have skeletons that are liable to be unearthed at any moment."

"He took a letter from his pocket, opened it and handed it to the doctor. 'I guess you can see to read this if you will step nearer the street lamp.' The letter was an offer from one of the big eastern lines. While the doctor knew very little of railroads, he understood that the offer was a fine one and was impressed accordingly."

"I'd take it," he said. "I wouldn't fretter away my time here. Precious little thanks you'll ever get."

"I can't honorably break with General Cornish. In fact, I have already declined, but I wanted you to see the letter."

"I am sorry for your sake that you did. You are sure to have more trouble."

"So much the more reason why I should stay."

"I am quite frank with you, Oakley. Some strong influence is at work. No, it hasn't to do with your father. You can't well be held accountable for his acts."

Ryder's laughter reached them as he spoke. Oakley could see him faintly outlined in the moonlight, where he sat between Constance Emory and her mother. The influence was there. It was probably at work at that very moment.

"I wouldn't be made a martyr through any chivalrous sense of duty," continued the doctor. "I'd look out for myself."

"Dan laughed again. 'You are preaching cowardice at a great rate.'"

"Well, what's the use of sacrificing oneself? You possess a most horrible sense of rectitude."

"I would like to ask a favor of you, hesitating."

"I was going to say if there was anything I could do."

"If you don't mind, with increasing hesitancy, 'Will you say to Miss Emory for me that I'd like to see her tomorrow afternoon? I'll call about 8—that is—'

"Yes, I'll tell her for you."

"Thank you," gratefully. "Thank you very much. You think she will be at home?" awkwardly, for he was afraid the doctor had misunderstood.

"I fancy so. I can see now, if you wish."

"No, don't. I'll call on the chance of finding her in."

"Just as you prefer."

Oakley extended his hand. "I won't keep you standing any longer. Somehow, our talk has helped me. Good night."

"Goodnight," said the doctor, and the doctor gazed abstractedly after the young man as he moved down the street, and he continued to gaze after him until he had passed from sight in the shadows that lay beneath the whispering maples.

CHAPTER XIII.

PERHAPS it showed lack of proper feeling, but Oakley managed to sleep off a good deal of his emotional stress, and when he left his hotel the next morning he was quite himself again.

His attitude toward the world was the decently cheerful one of the man who is earning a good salary and whose personal cares are far from being numerous or pressing. He was still capable of looking out for Cornish's interests, and his own, too, if the need arose.

He went down to the office alert and vigorous. As he strode along he nodded and smiled at the people he met on the street. At the door of his father's crime was to attach itself to him, it should be without his help. Although might count him cautious, if it liked, but it must not think him weak.

His first official act was to go for Kerr, who was unusually cantankerous, and he gave that rigid gentleman a scare which lasted him for the better part of a week, for Kerr, who had convinced himself overnight that Oakley must resign, saw himself having Oakley swing with the Huckleberry, and was disposed to treat his superior with a little indifference. He had objected to hunting up an old order book Dan wished to see on the score that he was too busy, whereas, as Holt expressed it, the latter "jumped on him with both feet." His second official act was to serve formal notice on Brannon that he was dismissed from the shops. He was even harsh with Miss Walton, and took exception to her spelling of a typewritten letter which he was sending off to Cornish in London.

He also inspected every department in the shops and was glad of an excuse he discovered to reprimand Joe Stokes, who was stockkeeper in the carpenter's room, for the slovenly manner in which the stock was landed. Then he returned to the office and as a matter of discipline kept Kerr busy all the rest of the morning hauling dusty order books from a dark closet. He felt that if excitement was what was wanted he was the one to furnish it. He had been too easy.

Naturally the office force gave a deep sigh of satisfaction when Oakley closed his desk and announced that he was going uptown and would not return. Miss Walton confided to Kerr that she just hoped he would never come back. It was a little before 3 o'clock when Dan presented himself at the Emorys. The maid who answered his ring ushered him into the parlor with marked trepidation. She was a timid soul. Then she swished from the room, but returned almost immediately to say that Miss Emory would be down in a moment.

When Constance entered the room he advanced a little uncertainly. She extended her hand quite cordially, however. There was no trace of embarrassment or constraint in her manner.

As he took her hand Dan said simply, going straight to the purpose of his call: "I have thought a good deal over what I want to tell you, Miss Emory. Miss Emory instantly took the alarm and was on the defensive. She enveloped herself in that species of inscrutable feminine reserve men find so difficult to penetrate. She could not imagine what he had to tell her that was so pressing. He was certainly very curious and unconventional. There was one thing she feared, he might want to tell her which she was firmly determined not to hear."

Oakley drew forward a chair. "Won't you sit down?" he asked gravely.

"Thank you, yes," it was all so formal they both smiled.

Dan stood with his back to the fireplace, now filled with ferns, and rested an elbow on the mantel. There was an awkward pause. At last he said slowly: "It seems I've been the subject of a lot of talk during the last two days, and I have been saddled with a matter for which I am in no way responsible, though, it appears to reflect on me quite as much as if I were."

"Really, Mr. Oakley," began Constance, "scanting danger ahead. But her visitor was in no mood to temporize."

"One moment, please," he said hastily. "You have heard the story from Mr. Ryder."

"I have heard it from others as well."

"It has influenced you?"

"No, I won't say that," defiantly. She was not accustomed to being catechized.

"At least it has caused you to seriously doubt the wisdom of an acquaintance," blurted Oakley.

"You are very unfair," rising, with latent anger.

"You will greatly oblige me by sitting down again."

And Constance, astonished beyond measure at his tone of command, sank back into her chair with a little smothered gasp of surprise. No one had ever ventured to speak to her like that before. It was a new experience.

"We've got to finish this, you know," explained Dan, with one of his frankest smiles, and there was a genial simplicity about his smile which was very attractive. Constance, however, was not to be propitiated, but she kept her seat. She was apprehensive lest Oakley would do something more startling, and now if she attempted to cut short the interview.

She stole a glance at him from under her long lashes. He was studying the carpet, apparently quite lost to the enormity of his conduct. "You have heard their side of the story, Miss Emory. I want you to hear mine. It's only fair, isn't it? You have heard that my father is an ex-convict?"

"That is a matter of regret."

"Yes, but it is a murderer?" plunging ahead mercilessly.

"Yes."

"And this is influencing you?"

"I suppose it is," helplessly. "It would naturally. It was a great shock to us all."

"Yes," agreed Dan. "I can understand, I think, just how you must look at it."

"We are very, very sorry for you, Mr. Oakley. I want to explain my manner last night. The whole situation was so excessively awkward. I am sure you must have felt it."

"I did," sturdily.

"Oh, dear, I hope you didn't think me unkind."

...FORTY YEARS AGO...

forty years ago. The Janesville Daily Gazette, Wednesday, July 25, 1866—A Good Move. At a recent meeting of the Rock County Agricultural Society the Secretary of the Society was authorized to designate one man in each town to solicit entries to the County Fair and to take the names of persons making such entries. This idea is a most excellent one, as thereby the numbers of those who will become interested in the Fair will be largely increased and its success be assured. We shall publish the premium list in a week or two. We trust the entire county will manifest an interest in this matter and make the Fair a grand success.

Mr. Seward having prophesied that the Mexican question will be settled within ninety days, we may definitely settle upon four years as the actual time which will be consumed in bringing about so desirable a consummation.

Sunday School Picnic. The children and teachers belonging to the Unitarian Sunday School are to have a picnic next Wednesday at Pope's Springs, about three miles north of the city, on the banks of Rock River. A boat has been engaged to convey the passengers, and due notice will be given of the hour of starting.

QUEER SOUVENIRS BY MAIL

Worn and Soiled Collars, Cuffs, Shirt-Bosoms, Socks, Etc., Pass Through.

"The souvenir postal card craze seems to be governed by none of the bounds of propriety and decency," declared a postal clerk at the federal building as he was distributing the deposits found in the public drop boxes, says the Philadelphia Telegraph.

"If the government doesn't put a stop to this nonsense I'll have to find a better job," he continued to muse.

"It was a disgraceful lot of stuff," he said. "In the collection were any number of worn and soiled collars, cuffs and shirt bosoms, not to speak of old socks, garters, and even several pairs of shoes."

The proper postage had been prepaid on everything—the cuffs, collars and shirt bosoms bearing stamps and addresses, the socks, garters and shoes being attached to tags inscribed with designations.

"There is no doubt the post office receipts are increasing everywhere, because of this popular custom of sending oddities through the mail," said another clerk in the same department, "but I wonder where it's going to end."

The government will accept in the mail anything not over four pounds in weight. Why, the other day we found a set of false teeth merely attached to a tag and addressed to a woman in Germantown. It's the limit."

CRYSTALLINE ILLUMINATION.

Light Emitted by Many Such Formations, the Alkaloid Class in Particular.

The light flashed from crystals is the light that has dawned upon the mind of Heri Tchugaff. Of 400 crystalline substances examined by him, 121 were found to emit light, the alkaloids as a class being particularly active, but only six out of 110 inorganic bodies showed the phenomenon. The colors of the light varied with the different substances, and its intensity could be classified according to an arbitrary scale in which ammonium nitrate was taken as typical of the first class, tartaric acid, of the second, and ammonium oxalate, of the third. The minute crystalline octahedra that may be formed by the ordinary white arsenic of commerce by dissolving it in boiling hydrochloric acid, when cooled and shaken in the dark, emit a succession of brilliant flashes. The property is by no means fugitive and the dry crystals will yield sparks months afterward, if rubbed with a glass rod. And, contrary to text books, the light is emitted just as readily from the opaque variety of oxide crystals as from those of the vitreous modification. This light has a continuous spectrum in the visible part of which the yellow and green rays predominate, though red rays are also present. It is apparently identical with the light emitted by solid bodies in a state of incandescence.

Couldn't Have Worked Hard. Paolo Additi, an old Italian brigand, who has been in prison 41 years, was recently set free and the public authorities gave him five dollars as their estimate of his earnings, above his jailfare, while in confinement.

Well—Isn't It So? Some men require so much waiting on that they come to be regarded as selfish boggars.

Sunshine Helps Sugar Cane.

The effect of sunshine on sugar growing is said by the New Orleans Picayune to make the crop more productive. Thus Spain has become as successful with beet-sugar growing as with her reestablished cane-sugar industry, notwithstanding an arid climate. On the other hand, the storms and fogs that envelop the British islands are said to have prevented the development of the beet-sugar industry there. England's annual average hours of sunshine are only 1,400, while Spain has 3,000 hours.

Bather Good Thing from Punch. "A wagon containing 300 quarts of milk," says a contemporary, "was upset in a street in Paris, and the milk flowed down the street like a river." A very apt simile.—Punch.

Regimental Reunions and Forty-third Anniversary Battle Chickamauga, Chattanooga, September 18-20, 1906.

On September 18, 1906, will occur the forty-third anniversary of the battle of Chickamauga. It is proposed to celebrate this memorable event with a reunion of the various regiments that participated in this memorable battle and the various battles fought around Chattanooga. This reunion will be held at Chickamauga National Park, September 18, 19 and 20, and the present indications are that it will be the largest and most notable gathering ever held in the South. On the above dates, the remnants from the armies of twelve states, comprising the following: Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri, Kansas and Kentucky, will assemble, many of the first and last time, since they marched from its blood-stained fields, forty-three years ago.

Here is one of the greatest opportunities for the education of the youth. Don't fail to take your children and show them historic Chattanooga, with all its historic connections. It is the opportunity of a lifetime. Go and see the old war generals and other officers point out the places of interest on the battlefield; let them show you and explain, in person, the markers erected on the battlefield showing the positions of the opposing armies at the time of battle. It will not be long until none will be left to do this noble work. It will be many years, if ever again, that such an opportunity will present itself. See that your tickets read via the Louisville & Nashville R. R. the Battlefield Route. Call on your nearest railroad agent for rates and advertising matter pertaining to the reunion, or write nearest representative of the Louisville & Nashville R. R.

S.S.S. CURES CATARRH

Catarrh cannot be washed away with sprays, inhalations and such treatment, nor can it be smoked out with medicated tobacco, cigarettes, etc. When you attempt to cure Catarrh with such things you are wasting time and allowing the impurities and poisons in the blood, which produce the disease, to get so firmly rooted as to become not only a disgusting trouble, but a very dangerous one. The annoying symptoms of ringing noises in the ears, "hawking and spitting," headaches, mucus dropping back into the throat, impairment to the senses of taste and smell, and a feeling of general debility, prove that there is a deep-seated cause for Catarrh. This cause is a polluted and unhealthy condition of the blood, and the disease cannot be cured until this is removed. The only way to get rid of Catarrh permanently is to purify the blood, and S. S. S. is the ideal remedy for this purpose. It soon clears the system of all impurities, purges the blood of all catarrhal matter and poisons, and effectually checks the progress of this disgusting and far-reaching disease. S. S. S. puts the blood in perfect order, and as this pure, healthy blood goes to every nook and corner of the body Catarrh is permanently cured. Book with information about Catarrh and medical advice free.

LESS TOBACCO BEING IMPORTED

STATISTICS FROM DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE AND LABOR.

FOR THE PAST TWO YEARS

Much Came Through Port of New York—Import Figures for Various Other Countries.

Washington, D. C., July 21.—A statement issued by the Department of Commerce and Labor, says that the United States imported 1,555,439 lbs. of leaf tobacco valued at $398,187, and 54,659 pounds of cigars, cigarettes and cheroots, valued at $298,573, as compared with 1,709,271 pounds of leaf tobacco valued at $440,960 and 64,014 pounds of cigars, valued at $325,197, imported in May, 1905. Our exports of tobacco to Cuba in May, 1906, were valued at $10,284 worth of manufactured tobacco as compared to $6,621 worth exported in May, 1905.

The United States exported 13,350 pounds of plug tobacco valued at $3,453 to the Philippines in May, 1906, the only exports of tobacco in that month. No exports of tobacco are recorded for May, 1905. In May, 1906, we imported from the Philippines 52 pounds of cigars, cheroots, and cigarettes valued at $83 as compared to 315 pounds valued at $425 in May, 1905. These are the only imports for these two periods recorded.

From Porto Rico the United States shipped 14,149 pounds of leaf tobacco valued at $48,415 in May, 1906, as compared with 98,390 pounds valued at $25,907 in May, 1905. A total of $1,291 worth of cigarettes and plug tobacco were exported to Porto Rico by this country in May, 1906, as compared to $658 worth in May, 1905.

From Porto Rico the United States received in May, 1906, 72,213 pounds of leaf tobacco valued at $35,525, 39,852 pounds of stems and trimmings valued at $3,413; $288,981 worth of cigars and $1,350 worth of cigarettes, as compared to a total importation from Porto Rico of $299,588 worth of tobacco in May, 1905.

The United States shipped $62,698 worth of cigars, cigarettes and plug tobacco to Hawaii in May, 1906, as compared with $22,456 worth in May, 1905. A total of only $5 worth of tobacco is recorded as the amount of tobacco imported by the United States from Hawaii in May, 1906, as compared with $458 worth imported in May, 1905.

In May, 1906, the United States exported $4,149 worth of leaf tobacco, cigars, cigarettes and plug to Alaska, as compared to $49,984 worth in May, 1905. From Alaska the United States received $100 worth of cigars in May, 1906, as compared with $125 worth in May, 1905.

At Port of New York.
A statement issued by the Department of Commerce and Labor shows that during the month of May, 1906, 22,696 hogheads of tobacco were entered at the port of New York, a total of 66,655 hogheads received during the months of January, February, March, April and May of 1906. In May, 1905, 14,086 hogheads were received, and during the five months period of 1905, a total of 54,821 hogheads were entered.

Island of Samoa.
During the year 1905, $2,403 worth of tobacco and $3,394 worth of cigars and cigarettes were imported by the German island of Samoa. In the same year, the former imports from Germany supplied 18.4 per cent, Australia 44.4 per cent, and the United States 4 per cent. Of the imports of cigars and cigarettes, the United States furnished 4.6 per cent, Australia 13.7 per cent and Germany 74.8 per cent.

Province of India.
The imports of tobacco into India during the fiscal year 1903-4 were valued at $1,500,000. During recent years cigarette smoking has come into great vogue among the millions of natives who live in towns and travel by railway, and is increasing. The importation of cigarettes during the quinquennial period 1899-1900 to 1903-4 increased in steady progression from 200,000 pounds, valued at $100,000, to 2,250,000 pounds, valued at $1,000,000. It is estimated that about 840,000,000 cigarettes were imported during 1904-5, valued at $1,150,000. The cigarettes most in demand are of a low, cheap grade, so that even if only moderate, good leaf, could be grown, this trade, with cheap labor and cheap paper from the Indian mills, might be monopolized by local industry run on sound business lines.

Republic of Brazil.
Brazil's exports of tobacco during 1905 amounted to 44,859,227 pounds valued at $4,128,030, as compared to 52,721,361 pounds valued at $4,192,630 in 1904.

STATE NOTES

Fire at Burlington destroyed the planing mill of Matt Rewald, causing a loss of $5,000, with no insurance.

P. H. Casey, of the Milwaukee road's detective force has taken two men from Portage to Watertown on a charge of robbing freight trains. They are Frank Wagner, of Buffalo, N. Y., and John Miller, of Chicago. They are charged with breaking into freight cars and taking two cases of shoes.

Peshigo has become imbued with the anti-saloon, fervor, and a campaign has begun to close them on Sundays. The State Anti-Saloon league has been asked to assist and meetings will commence on Thursday, with William Zechel of Appleton as speaker. The Scandinavian Temperance society is leading in the movement, but has the co-operation of leading citizens.

After working for three days to find the bodies of the three people drowned in Saturday night's storm at Superior, that of Miss Florence Tostevin was recovered late last evening after two hundred pounds of dynamite had been used. In the neighborhood of 100 people have been dragging the bay and the work will continue today in an effort to find the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. McArthur.

Ten thousand people attended the third annual national picnic of the Mystic Workers of the World at Madison on Tuesday. The weather was ideal. There were all sorts of contests on land and water. The band of La Salle, Ill., won the prize for the best band. The speakers were Gov. Davidson, City Attorney Aylward, D. F. Lichtenberger of Chicago, and Jerry S. Green of Davenport, Ia.

The Union Grove Telephone company has been reorganized and incorporated, with a capital stock of $5,000. The village is to be wired with metallic wires, and there will be sixty phones. A deal has been made to connect the system with fifteen farmers' telephone lines, fifteen miles north and south and six miles east and west. These are to be connected with the Wisconsin Telephone company.

DIED AT OLD HOME IN HARMONY TOWN

Mrs. Angeline Wilbur Who Passed Away Yesterday, Was Nearly Ninety-two Years Old.

Mrs. Angeline Wilbur, widow of the late George Wilbur, quietly breathed her last at her home in the town of Harmony shortly after half past four o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Had she lived until August 26 deceased would have been ninety-two years of age. For sixty years Mrs. Wilbur had her home on the same farm and her friends in Rock county were legion. Six sons survive her. They are: Isaac and Frank who are located at Orange, California; William H. of Milton, E. H. Wilbur of Geneva Lake, S. H. Wilbur of Janesville, and W. C. Wilbur of the town of Harmony. The funeral is to be held at two o'clock Thursday afternoon, Rev. North of Milton will officiate.

SPEEDY WHITEWATER NINE VERSUS EAGLES

Local Team Will Play Game Out of City Tomorrow—Benefit For Ernest Allen Sunday.

One of the speediest teams in southern Wisconsin, that of White-water, playing on their home grounds, will endeavor to turn the record of the Janesville Eagles tomorrow. The nine is largely composed of young men of high school class but have an enviable score sheet for the season. The regular pitcher has won every game he has pitched, and no team has secured more than three hits and three runs off him. The Milton Crescents fell before him by a score of 6 and 3. For the Janesville team Hutchinson will pitch and Wendt catch.

Benefit Game Sunday.
Sunday's game at Eagle Park is to be a benefit for Ernest Allen. Members of the Eagles have disposed of many tickets and hope to raise a neat sum. The Harvard boys will be their opponents.

BRIEF NOTES

Touring the State. Walter D. Graves, son of Dr. E. L. Graves of Chicago, and Miss Jessie Phillips of the same city, were the guests of William H. Graves yesterday. The visitors are on a tour of the state and have thus far greeted relatives at Cedar Lake, Madison and Evansville. They will return to Chicago Saturday.

W. R. C. Picnic Tomorrow. The W. R. C. No. 21 and their friends are to have a basket picnic tomorrow at the home of Miss Ora Smith, 10 Oak Lawn avenue. For those who have no conveyances of their own a carriage will be at the G. A. R. hall at 2 p. m. Everybody is invited.

Directors' Meeting. The directors of the Lafayette County Improvement company held a meeting at the Myers house last evening. Don Farnsworth, his brother, J. J. Farnsworth, and F. E. Bills, all of Chicago, were among those in attendance and remained in the city today.

Automobile Visitors. R. J. Merrick, Jr., a board of trade man, his wife, and E. G. Catlin and Miss Ellen Partidge, all of Chicago, comprised a party of auto tourists who were registered at the Myers house last evening.

New Sweeper Brush. A new brush for the street sweeping machine, arrived here today and will soon replace the broom which came with the apparatus when purchased and has been worn out by constant usage.

Mock Trial Preparations. Preparations for the Ben Hur mock trial, which is to be held tomorrow night at eight o'clock in the East Side Odd Fellows' hall, have been completed. The prosecuting and defending attorneys have arranged their cases and both expect victory.

WAYS OF THE AFRICAN LION

With Increasing Scarcity of Game, Jungle King Becomes Menace to Human Life.

Lions are increasing in number throughout the district, and, I believe, in all Angola, though they are still not so common as leopards. Certainly they watch the road for dinner, and all the way from Benguela to Bihe you have a good chance of hearing them purring about your wagon any night. Sometimes then you may find a certain satisfaction in reflecting that you are inside the wagon and that 20 oxen or more are sleeping around you, tied to their yokes. An ox is a better meal than a man, but to men as well as to oxen the lion are becoming more dangerous as the wilder game grows scarcer. A native, from the wagon which crossed the Cuando just after mine, was going down for water in the evening when a lion sprang on him and split the petroleum can with his claw. The boy had the sense to beat his cup hard against the tin, and the monarch of the forest was so disgusted at the noise that he withdrew; but few boys are so quick, and many are killed, especially in the mountain zone about 100 miles from the coast.

THE REV. B. R. CHENEY BURIED IN FLORENCE IN OTHER PLACES

Same Hymns Sung at Florence, Italy, and at Madison.

Beloit, Wis., July 24.—Scarcely had the echo of the hymns "How Firm a Foundation" and "Lead Kindly Light" died away Sunday about the tombs in the Protestant cemetery on the slope of the Arno in Florence, Italy, when the members of the Second Congregational church in this city took up the refrain in loving remembrance of him who was laid to rest so far from his family, his church, and his native land, their pastor, the Rev. Benjamin Royal Cheney.

It was a strange coincidence that the same hymns were sung at both places and on the same day. According to a cablegram received from Florence, Mr. Cheney was ascending alone in an elevator and mistook the story where he was to go. He stepped back, presumably to get into the car again, but fell through the open shaft. Instead, his skull was fractured but he lived for two hours, although entirely unconscious.

The funeral was on Sunday. The Rev. Inver Metcalf of Quindici, Italy, officiated. Prof. T. L. Wright of Beloit and Mr. Jeffris of Janesville were the speakers. The hymns sung were "How Firm a Foundation" and "Lead Kindly Light," both favorites of the dead man. The casket was draped in the American flag while about it was heaped the choicest of flowers. Prof. J. A. Blaisell gave the address at the church here Sunday.

FARMERS GENERALLY DECLINE OFFERS ON THE 1906 TOBACCO

Weather Very Favorable to All Crops, Says Correspondent at East Porter.

East Porter, July 25.—The warm weather we have been having is very favorable for the corn and tobacco. Haying is nearly all done in this vicinity and the barley harvesting has begun.

Tobacco buyers are numerous around here, trying to purchase the crops for handsome prices, where the farmers can be induced to sell, but most of them prefer to wait until it is harvested.

Mr. and Mrs. Mullenbach and children of Chicago are enjoying a two weeks' outing at Wallis's cottage. The Misses Lou Raymond, Frances Gardner, Bessie Green, and Leulah Brown have just returned from the two weeks' institute held at Janesville.

We are glad to see so many visitors at Fulton church each Sunday. Those present last Sunday were Mr. Mrs. McManus and daughter and Miss and Mrs. Mullenbach of Chicago, Sarah Sutherland of Janesville, Mr. and Mrs. Claud Murwin, Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Marsden of Albion, and Nettie, Lester and Archie Thomson of South Fulton.

Rev. Mr. Price was given an indefinite call recently to supply the pulpit in the Fulton church. We are pleased to note that the greatest harmony seems to prevail between pastor and people.

Mac Wyle was able to visit relatives in East Porter last week. We are glad to note that her health is somewhat improved.

The Ladies' Aid met with Mrs. Warner last Wednesday.

Miss Berline Humes of Chicago is visiting a few weeks with her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Anson Pope and family.

JUSTICE TO THE CHILDREN

Parents Make Great Mistake in Refusing to Listen to Infantile Grievances.

A mother's magazine calls attention to the fact that the old adage, "Children should be seen and not heard," has little place in the modern systems of child training, and says it is quite right that it is so, especially in the case of the child with a grievance. Children, with all their chattering, are strongly inarticulate when it is a matter of explaining their feelings, and a child may suffer more than the adults around it ever dream over some injustice, real or fancied, which it would probably have difficulty in putting into words. If the parents are continually telling it to "Hush up," and "Keep still, now!" there is every chance of developing a fairly sulky youngster in time.

In one New York home, where the father takes an active part in the training of the children, as few fathers do in this country, unfortunately, no dispute among the children and no grievance of any one of them pass unnoted; especially if the father is around. No matter what he may be doing, he drops it and instantly opens a kind of informal children's court, getting at the bottom of the trouble by the gentlest of questioning. This takes some of his time, of course, but to those children their father is the ideal of justice, a confidant who never fails them.

SUFFICIENT RAIN IN OTHER PLACES

Weather Bulletin for the Week Ending Monday, July Twenty-third.

The weather during the week ending July 23d was generally warm with abundant sunshine and sufficient rainfall in most sections, being, on the whole, very favorable for growing plants and outdoor work. The week opened rather cool and there were light showers in the north and central portions of the state on Monday, the 16th. The temperature rose slowly during Tuesday and Wednesday, the weather being generally clear until Wednesday afternoon when it gradually became cloudy and very beneficial showers fell in nearly all sections during that night.

Showers continued at intervals during Thursday and Friday night, the weather clearing again Friday. The temperature was high and the atmosphere felt oppressive from Friday noon until Sunday, when an area of showers and moderately severe thunderstorms passed eastward over the state, causing much cooler and more pleasant weather.

The mean temperature for the week averaged about normal in the central section of the state, slightly above normal in southeast portion and below normal in northwest portion. Friday, the 21st, was the warmest day during the week, the maximum temperatures being from 90 to 93 degrees throughout the central and western portions of the state.

The precipitation was fairly well distributed over the state. The total for the week was largest in the southern part of the middle section, and least in the counties along the Michigan line.

ALLEGED GERMANS WERE BEATEN

Blood-curdling Story of Maltreatment in Lumber Camp of Alabama.

Pensacola, Fla., July 25.—Peonage in a vicious form is charged against the officers of the Jackson Lumber company, at Lockhart, Ala., and United States deputies, armed with warrants for their arrest, left here Tuesday for that place.

If the allegations are true about 100 immigrants, mostly Germans, are held in the lumber camps of that company virtually as slaves. A party of Germans, reached here Tuesday from the camps stating that they had escaped. They went to the German vice counsel for protection and told him a tale of ill-treatment and cruelty that has hardly a parallel in the south. They said they were brought south in February under representations that they would receive three dollars and five dollars per day, but only one dollar was received from the company for the labor. They allege that they were compelled to eat after the Americans and if nothing was left they got nothing. One of them was allowed to leave camp and when they attempted to leave they were caught and severely beaten. When in the woods the bosses go armed and if the men do not work to suit them they were stripped and while two of them held a man across a log a third plied a strap or any instrument of torture handy.

The Jackson Lumber company is one of the largest in the south. It was organized three years ago and is composed principally of Michigan and Wisconsin capitalists.
